Anti-Wrinkle Injections

Botulinum toxin is a protein produced by the bacterium Clostridium botulinum, which blocks the electrical impulses that make the facial muscles contract. Used as a cosmetic ingredient, it can be injected into your muscles to temporarily block signals from your nervous system that tell certain muscles to move.

As we mentioned, since wrinkles and lines on your face are caused by your muscles making the same contraction over and over, blocking this signal can minimize the appearance of these wrinkles. Botulinum toxin injections can also slow the formation of new lines by preventing the contraction of facial muscles.

Treating wrinkles with botulinum toxin is a minimally invasive procedure, simple and straightforward. It does not involve incisions or general anaesthesia and has minimal downtime.

Anti-wrinkle injections with botulinum toxin are most commonly used for the treatment of frown lines, forehead lines, crow's feet or smile lines.

Before your treatment, you will have a consultation to discuss your concerning areas, ideal results, side effects and to disclose any medications or medical history.

48 hours before the treatment you should avoid drinking any alcohol. On the day of the procedure, a thin, sterilized needle is used to inject the neurotoxin into the targeted areas. The toxin will then diffuse down gradually into the muscle.

This type of procedure will typically require multiple injections, but it should not take long (typically less than an hour). If you are concerned about pain or discomfort, a topical anaesthetic or ice can numb the treatment area.

Dermal Fillers

Dermal fillers are gel-like substances that are injected beneath the skin to restore lost volume, smooth lines, and soften creases, or enhance facial contours.

Fillers are not permanent. How long they last depend on things like the type of filler and where it's injected. They usually last between 6 and 18 months. Most dermal fillers used in the UK contain a natural substance called hyaluronic acid. If you have fillers, the rest of your face will continue to age as normal

Dermal fillers are small injections of gel, typically made up of hyaluronic acid, that fill in wrinkles and add volume to soft tissue.

You can have dermal fillers in different parts of your face: around the eye, cheeks, mouth, and jawline & lips.

E.g., Smokers' lines, Marionette folds, nasolabial lines, and lips

Marionette lines

From £145 - 0.5ml. £170 - 1ml

Are long vertical lines that commonly develop on each side of the chin as a result of the ageing process and other lifestyle.

The skin around your mouth is thinner compared with the rest of your face, so it is particularly prone to wrinkling. Marionette lines are caused by a combination of collagen breakdown and loss of elastin that leads to the loosening of skin in the cheeks and lower part of the face.

People typically begin developing marionette lines in their late 30s or early 40s.

Smokers Lines

From £150

Used to prevent lines from developing/deepening, or to soften existing lines. The elimination of the smoker lines leads to a more rested, approachable, and fresh appearance and an overall more youthful look.

Facial Treatments

Chemical Peel

1 session - £100

3 sessions - £250

5 sessions - £380

Chemical peels are desired by many men and women today to achieve a smoother and younger appearance; the reason for some individuals is to get rid of unsightly acne scars and age spots, or to remove unwanted freckles. Others wish to smooth fine lines and wrinkles. For whatever the reason, medical studies have shown that this cosmetic treatment does work. Chemical solutions are used to remove the top layers of the skin to reveal new healthy skin.

It is recommended to have 5 sessions, 2 weeks apart for full results

Micro-needling- Collagen induction therapy

1 treatment £120 - 30 mins with a mask

3x treatments £240 courses spaced 3-4 wks. apart

Mid non surgical face lift
POA

Building the middle to lower face to restore that lifted rejuvenated appearance. Sculpting the cheeks to get the structure and lift required. Shaping the jaw and chin to give definition and a youthful appearance

Face shape sculpting

POA

The face shape plays a huge part in respect to beauty. Many people do not like their face shape, feeling it is too round, square or is spoilt by asymmetrical features (with symmetry proven to be a key factor in perceived female attractiveness).

Knowing and understanding your face shape can help you make decisions about makeup, hair and which way to turn for that photo. Any face shape can also be flattered and rejuvenated by more sculpted cheekbones and a sharper jawline. However, facial sculpting. We can also work with you to move towards your desired face shape, using dermal fillers and wrinkle treatments to add volume and structure.

Diamond face shape sculpting

POA

A diamond-shaped face has a narrow eye line and jaw line. The cheekbones, where the face is widest, are broad, high and prominent while the chin is narrow, delicate and pointy.

To achieve this face shape, fillers are injected into the cheekbones to make them high and prominent, and into the chin to make it more pointy.

Heart face shape sculpting

POA

This is similar to the diamond face shape, with wide and high cheekbones and pointy chin. However, the cheeks are less prominent and the whole look is rounder and softer, with less dramatic angles.

The Golden ratio of Beauty or Fibonacci number

The Golden Ratio (also known as Phi, or the Fibonacci number) is the mathematical symmetry algorithm that underlies our perception of attractiveness. The Italian Renaissance polymath, Leonardo Da Vinci, used the Golden Ratio equation and realised that the closer a face or object gets to this number, the higher the level of its perceived beauty.

In fact, Leonardo is thought to have used the golden ratio when painting the Mona Lisa!

Studies of the most beautiful women in the world have shown that they have countless instances of this ratio in their faces. This proves symmetry to be a key factor in perceived attractiveness, especially in female faces.

Others think that we tend to perceive a face more aesthetically appealing when it features the Golden Ratio because the human eye can process it faster and that causes our brain to feel 'pleased'.

Thanks to the latest advancements in facial aesthetic treatments, today it is possible to restore your proportions closer to the Golden Ratio and rejuvenate older features.

Asymmetries and effects of the aging process can be easily corrected with a different combination of treatment options, usually including dermal fillers and botulinum toxin. A bespoke treatment will be personally recommended for you at the consultation

Laser hair removal information

Most people experience hair removal that lasts several months, and it might last for years. But laser hair removal doesn't guarantee permanent hair removal.

When hair regrows, it's usually finer and lighter in colour. You might need maintenance laser treatments for long-term hair reduction.

Laser hair removal is a cosmetic procedure that uses a powerful laser or intense pulsed light (IPL) to remove unwanted hair.

This light source heats and destroys hair follicles in the skin, which disrupts hair growth.

A full in-depth consultation is required with a patch test is required prior to any treatment being offered

Please note.

It takes two or three weeks after your first treatment to see a difference, and it can take up to 8 -12 treatments to get the full result. You also have to be really regular with your appointments because your hair follicles are all at different stages of their growth, so you want to make sure each one has a chance to get zapped. Basically if you stop, your hair will grow back. Laser will not completely remove the area in a hand full of treatments, and not laser will 100% remove all hairs

Capillary and spider vein reductions

Vascular Lesion Treatments are effective and improvements can be seen after the first treatment. The number of required treatments will vary depending on the type and location of the vascular lesion. Broken capillaries on the facial area (usually on the cheeks, chin, and around the nose), will usually require 1-2 treatments done at monthly intervals. Large spider veins on areas such as the legs will require 2-3 treatments done at monthly intervals.

For Laser Flushing, we recommend 4-6 treatments done at monthly intervals for optimum results. We treat angiomas in the clinic and it usually requires one treatment.

Small area from £50.00
Medium area from £70.00
Large area from £115.00

Broken capillaries - Face - Cheeks - Chin around the nose

1-2 treatments per month

Large spider veins on areas such as legs 2-3 treatment to be done monthly

Laser flushing - 4-6 treatment. 1 per month for optimum results

No treatments on head on pubic bone

These treatments can be used in conjunction with other treatments. This will be discussed at your consultation

Carbon facial

The carbon facial enhances the skin's radiance and promotes a smooth, glowing complexion, who wouldn't want glowing skin!

Results leave the skin visibly brighter, clearer and tighter. Known as a very effective therapy for shrinking pores this treatment gently resurfaces leaving the skin with a glass like texture. The results of this treatment are further enhanced when paired with LED Light Therapy to boost collagen, repair & seal.

It is ideal for removing excessive oil & sebum refining and minimising enlarged pores helping pigment & hyperpigmentation damage, lessening the appearance of fine lines & wrinkles, reducing live acne & post-acne scars. Carbon peels may be repeated every two to three weeks. This period of time allows for ample collagen regeneration between treatments.

The carbon facial is a two-stage process. Before the treatment begins, we will double cleanse the skin. A layer of liquid carbon is then applied to the skin, where it penetrates deep into the pores. As the carbon dries, it attaches itself to dirt, oil or dead skin cells on the surface of the skin.

Hifu

High-Intensity Focused Ultrasound (HIFU) is a non-invasive medical procedure that is increasingly being used in aesthetic medicine for skin tightening and facial rejuvenation. The procedure works by using high-frequency sound waves to heat the deeper layers of skin and cause collagen production, resulting in a more youthful and tightened appearance. It is sometimes called the 'Lunchtime Face Lift' as the treatment is quick, very tolerable and has no downtime.

One of the key advantages of HIFU in aesthetic medicine is that it is minimally invasive, meaning that there are no incisions or surgeries required. The procedure is performed through the skin, resulting in little to no downtime or recovery time for patients. This makes HIFU an attractive option for those who are looking to improve their appearance without undergoing major procedures.

HIFU can be used to target specific areas of the face, such as the neck, jowls, and brow, to tighten sagging skin and reduce the appearance of fine lines and wrinkles. It can also be used to enhance the appearance of the cheeks and jawline, giving patients a more defined and youthful look.

In addition to its skin tightening benefits, HIFU has also been shown to promote collagen production, which can result in a more youthful and glowing appearance. Collagen is a protein that is naturally produced by the body and is responsible for giving skin its elasticity and firmness. As we age, collagen production decreases, leading to the development of wrinkles and sagging skin. HIFU can help to reverse this process by stimulating the production of new collagen and elastin fibres. The treatment tends to work best on people older than 30 with moderate skin laxity. The treatment is unlikely to be effective if your skin has become very lax or "saggy", though your clinician can give you advice on whether you fall into this category. HIFU is not suitable for people with lesions or severe damage to the treatment area, metallic implants, or severe acne.

What is Cryotherapy and what does it treat?

CryoPen is an advanced cryotherapy device that has fast become a market leader for treating benign skin lesions and imperfections effectively, quickly and safely.

Its high precision applicator tip ensures treatments are accurately targeted, without damaging healthy surrounding skin tissue, for improved aesthetic outcomes and a pain-free and easy tolerated experience.

CryoPen freezes the lesion's inter-cellular fluid, forming ice crystals, which subsequently rupture the cell membrane, destroying the cell.

The precise tip helps to greatly reduce the risk of post-treatment hypo-pigmentation, and makes the CryoPen safe for all areas of the face and body, even near the eyes.

CryoPen Area's

CryoPen treats benign skin lesions on the surface of the skin, many of which are no longer able to be treated by doctors under the NHS, due to their cosmetic nature. It can treat lesions on the face, scalp and body including:
